The Latipac

Volume Three

1932

Published by the Senior Class of the Broughton High School
Raleigh, North Carolina

OLIVIA RANEY LIBRARY
4016 Carya Drive
Raleigh, NC 27610

Foreword

The Legends of King Arthur are chosen by the Staff as a basis for the Medieval art theme of the 1932 Latipac. The illustrations are suggested by episodes in the lives of Arthur and his knights, found in Tennyson's Idylls of the King.

May this, the third volume of the Latipac, serve as an everlasting monument of our past and as a sustaining inspiration to future students of Broughton High School.

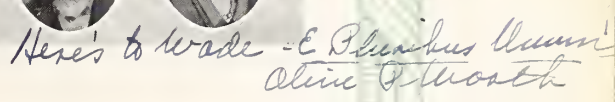

In appreciation of his progressive and cooperative leadership and of his interest in the personal welfare of the individual student,
this volume is dedicated in all sincerity to
William Henry Shaw

My Annual

WHEN my school days are o'er
And my classmates I must leave,
I shall miss the happy days of yore,
But to one thing I shall cleave,
My Annual.

For weeks and weeks fond memories last,
But when my comrades are hard to find
And the beautiful memories are past
One thing surely of them will remind,
My Annual.

I can see it now, forty years ahead,
The cover is torn and bare;
But the prized signatures can still be read,
And sweet thoughts linger there,
My Annual.

Sometimes when I am tired and weary
I'll take it by my side,
Then everything becomes bright and cheery
And my heart fills with pride,
My Annual.

JAMES RENN, '32.

“‘Make me thy knight—in secret! let my name
Be hidden, and give me the first quest, I spring
Like flame from ashes.’

‘Make thee my knight? my knights are sworn to vows
Of utter hardihood, utter gentleness,
And, loving, utter faithfulness in love,
And uttermost obedience to the king’.”

—Gareth and Lynette.

Senior Class Poem

AS we launched on the great sea of life
And hit the rocks of love and of strife,
As we have reached this port at last
We must look to the future and not to the past.

Standing at the helm to guide the way
And to see us safely through every day
Was our captain, the chosen one
Whose name was Elisabeth Davidson.

Standing behind to take her place,
If she should fail in any case,
To help us in any way she could
Was the capable Muriel Blackwood.

Down in the hold the treasure was stored,
And, "Boy," right up that treasure soared,
Perhaps by the omens of the fates,
But more to the efforts of Charlie Cates.

Another job that was well done, too—
To record the meetings and what we do,
To tell of the times we laughed and played,
Befell the lot of Elizabeth Wade.

The rest of us were only the crew
But think we didn't have work to do!
We had to work and try to pass
To make this "good 'ole Senior Class."

EDNA LEE PEGRAM, '32.

History of the Class of 1932

Now harken, readers all, and I will tell the story of a class thou knowest well.
Prithee lend thine ears to me, for that same class will soon be leaving thee.

IN the year of our Lord, 1928, this goodly class entered the Hugh Morson High School as freshmen, right modest and bashful. Forsooth, we did not long remain bashful, for straightway we began to learn the ways of high school students, and right well did we profit thereby. Anon we did hold a meeting of our class and elect for President that valiant knight, Francis Worth, and for our Vice President we did choose the fair lady, Elisabeth Davidson.

Now when the time drew nigh for us to begin our Sophomore year it fortuneed that a new school, the Needham Broughton High School, had been built in the westerly part of our fair town. Thenceforth we wended our ways thither daily, instead of to Hugh Morson. This year Elisabeth Davidson succeeded Francis Worth as leader of our class, and he in turn became second in command.

Withal our Sophomore year did pass right speedily, and when the golden month of September came once more, we were Juniors. Thus, when gallant Francis Worth was chosen President again, it fell to his lot to lead us in our task of acquiring moneys for and staging that muchly famed event which cometh every year—the banqueting of the Juniors and Seniors. Anon, when we set ourselves to making chains of the daisy that springeth up in the merry month of May, our thoughts began to travel forward to the time when we, as Seniors, should be honored in like manner.

And lo, the time did come. Albeit because of the slack and unprofitable times our term was shortened to eight months, in truth it was much fuller for our class than any year before. Our bonny Elisabeth Davidson was chosen to lead the class, and in faith right ably did she lead us. Then happed it that a goodly number of events did take place that year, amongst them the Senior Play, the Cabaret Minstrel, the Operetta, and then eftsoons dawned a memorable day, May 6. On this day, having been muchly instructed in the arts and knowledges of this world, we did receive our diplomas and did leave the Needham Broughton High School for the last time, as a class.

We, the Class of '32, have striven mightily to live up to our motto “Ducere,” to lead, and set a dignified example for the young lads and lassies of the lower classes. And so, gentle reader, as we come to the parting of the ways, with many a sigh and a tear in leaving, we must needs bid thee a sad adieu.

ELEANOR R. SEAGLE,
Class Historian.

New York, N. Y.

Hon. Samuel Leager
Governor's Mansion
Raleigh, N. C.

Hello Sam, ol' boy:

I see by the papers you're making a swell place out of the old home state. That article you had in the "Boloney" magazine about prosperity is "just around the corner" is so much bologna, because, Sam, ol' boy, I've found out, after thirty years of searching, that this world hasn't any corners.

And say, Sam, I see that the salaries haven't been cut but six per cent this year so I guess you are still getting cigarette money. I went around town and picked out all the busy locations, then rented small spaces for the unemployed to sell apples. My first customers were Joe Moye, Elizabeth Wade, Kenlon Broekwell, Otis Jones, and Walter Flournoy. They have only been out of work for six years and are selling apples temporarily. Joe Moye couldn't remember the prices so he had to stop selling them.

And Sam, I wish you would pass a law to get Harry Beddoes out of School. Miss Runnion wrote me today and asked me to use my influence in getting Harry out of her class.

I went to Mars this morning on business and the rocket service is terrible. It took me four hours to get there and five to return. Muriel Blackwood and Emily Scott were the first persons I saw there. They have opened up a bakery and are killing the "Martians" with biscuits.

I looked at our earth from up on Mars and there was so much red tape I thought it was burning up. James Renn is the latest sensation on Mars, all the women are crazy about him.

I went to a cabaret last night and saw Don McAfee. He is a gigolo. After the night club, at which Hazel Pike sang us to sleep, I went down to my club to get a bite to eat. The soup was so weak I got homesick for our old cafeteria at school.

And say pal, Arthur Brown and Charlie Cates, Successors to J. Pierpont Morgan of Wall Street, took me to ride for one hundred thousand dollars on consolidated hot air, quoted at one-fourth cent a share. I was prepared though, I had a bushel of apples to sell.

This afternoon I dropped by the athletic club and saw Jack Dunaway for a few minutes. His ears are so cauliflowered they look like warts. He was relaxing a few minutes (and writing poetry). "Nick" Nicholson is his sparring partner.

I went down town to see Al Smith today and he is willing to run, he said. He said light wines and beers were only a few years off, and immediately his nose turned red. I've been considering running for president myself as they need someone like Calvin Coolidge who doesn't talk much.

Armistead Maupin is running a barber shop on 49th Street. He claims he is having a cutting good time. Every night he rents the barber shop to Francis Worth who turns it into a speakeasy and sells the hair tonic as "bottled in bond."

Martin Thomas is the clergyman at a little church in Manhattan where he is kept busy tying matrimonial knots between our old school chums. Why only last week he married Elisabeth Davidson and Morrison Campbell. Yesterday Morrison was run out of town for selling Fuller Brushes two for a quarter and "Lib" got mad and married Clay Williams.

And say, Sam, I just sent my kid to the orphanage and my wife back home to her mother. If business don't get better I will have to sell my Ford.

Give my regards to principal William Heyward at Broughton High and all the others who can use them.

Yours with tears in my eyes,
(Been eating an onion)

NORMAN HICKS.

P. S. Mr. Shaw, our former principal, has a position in Woolworth's as a Yo-Yo salesman, and Eleanor Seagle shot herself when Thomas Cole ditched her for "Blondy" Bunn, a chorus girl in Hugh Kirkpatrick's "Scandals of 1955."

Last Will and Testament

HEAR YE! Hear ye! To all whom this may concern. Ye class of '32, of ye City of Raleigh, of ye Broughton High, after four years or more under close supervision in ye aforesaid institution, notwithstanding cafeteria food, semi-annual examinations, and periodic dashes for ye classes, are about to be discharged as being sound of mind and body, and herewith make and execute our last will and testament in ye following manner:

ARTICLE I

To Mr. Shaw, our beloved and respected principal, we offer whole hearted gratitude in appreciation of interest taken in us not only as a class but as individuals, and his special effort to lend support in all our undertakings. We provide that some of the vast wealth which hath accumulated during our stay be invested in an insurance policy payable to him in case he shouldn't be caught on the steps when the bell in your tower ringeth for ye and of ye fourth period.

ARTICLE II

For those teachers of ye weaker sex (referring to mentality) who have been unsuccessful in securing their ideal man, and have unfortunately had a crimp put in their charms by Father Time himself, we establish with ye bulk of our riches a home for their retirement to be run jointly with ye Dix Hill Institution.

ARTICLE III

We leave to ye activity groups the authority to write anonymous letters condemning ye present financial condition to whoever is the cause.

ARTICLE IV

To ye class of '33, we bequeath the right to occupy ye front seats in ye chapel. But this privilege must in no manner disturb those who seem permanently lodged in this locality. Also to ye aforesaid class we leave certain dignified characteristics in carriage and manner which to be effective must be retained under fire of ye most threatening moral lecture or in face of an entirely foreign question on a history final. Further we bequeath certain mental hallucinations, known as Senior privileges, hoping that the participation in these will in no manner hamper their regular curriculum.

ARTICLE V

To ye freshman class we leave the unquestionable right to use the wrong set of stairs during lunch periods, that is, if no teacher catches them in the act.

ARTICLE VI

We bequeath to ye sub-freshman the anticipation of the day when ye financial conditions of ye state will permit a nine-months school.

ARTICLE VII

To those students whose fathers are occupied in ye noble art of tilling ye soil, we leave the expectation of another farm loan which will enable them to purchase new Ford roadsters. It is very noticeable that our parking spaces are displaying ye rather antiquated models.

ARTICLE VIII

We offer as a suggestion to ye authorities that the present clock system be abolished in favor of a sundial to be erected in ye court and a set of alarm clocks for ye cloudy days. In case Mr. Shaw's secretary has difficulty in finding other ways than the incessant ringing of bells by which to demonstrate her authority, we recommend that she be allowed to call her boss by his first name.

ARTICLE IX

We find also that certain individuals of the departing class have collected many valuable gifts which they would like to distribute among ye lower classmen in ye following manner:

I, Muriel Blackwood, the fairest of the fairer sex, bequeath my title to Mary Poyner.

I, Elizabeth Park, bequeath my rush at ye "Ag." dances to Katherine Mason. Employ that entrancing come-hither look on ye stag line, Katerin.

To Evelyn Briggs, I, Elisabeth Davidson, will my popularity except with a certain Mr. Campbell.

I, Virginia Crocker, leave my powerful physique to Mary Conrad, hoping that some day you will be as strong and robust as Elizabeth Page.

To, Katherine Martin, I Emily Scott, leave my quiet repose of manner.

I, Jack Dunaway, leave my athletic abilities to George Poyner, but not my popularity with the ladies. Ladies?

To Robert Ponton, I, Sam Leager, bequeath my base voice.

To Willis Holden, I, Key Scales, leave peculiar technique in shooting goals, or rather at the goal, in basketball.

I, Mary Helen Stewart, leave certain spontaneous outbursts of laughter to Eloise Harrington.

I, James Renn, bequeath my ability at getting ye straight "A's" to Jeb Davis (not that he needs help).

To, Al Dunaway, I, Lacy Frazier, will my end position.

I, Julia Britt, leave my dignity as an example to the lower classmen.

To James Hines, I Armistead Maupin, leave my ability of making timely wise cracks on class.

I, Hugh Miller Kirkpatrick, leave my bashfulness around members of the opposite sex to Joe Blankenship.

I, Arthur Brown, leave ye business managership of ye annual to "Sticky" Brown. Keep this source of finance in the family as long as possible, "Sticky."

To Arch Newbold, I, Howard White, leave certain chirping sounds coming from the vicinity of ye throat generally believed to be signs of mirth.

I, Bill Heyward, leave my testating abilities to whomever it might be wished upon.

We name as ye sole executor of this will Leon Trotsky, feeling sure that ye misappropriated sums will go to a good cause.

WILLIAM B. HEYWARD,

Testator.

Mrs. Carson: This essay on “Our Dog” is word for word the same as your sisters.
William Thrift: Yes, mam, it's the same dog.

Dr. Elmore: How far from the answer to the first question were you?

James Wright: About four seats.

“Kat” Martin: I'm not going to school any more.

Evelyn Briggs: Why not?

“Kat”: I can't learn a thing. The teachers keep changing the lessons every day.

Scene in Dr. Elmore's chemistry F class—

Elizabeth Wade: Oh, dear, what happened when we heated that mixture of HCL and Na?

Wade Lewis: The test tube broke.

Bill Bandy fell into a state of coma, but recovered before his friends had buried him.

Cheshire Cox (one of his friends): How does it feel to be dead?

Bill: Dead! I wasn't dead, and I knew I wasn't dead, because my feet were cold, and I was hungry.

Cheshire: But how did that make you sure?

Bill: Well, I knew if I were in heaven I shouldn't be hungry, and if I were in the other place my feet wouldn't be cold.

And simple words of great authority,
Bound them by so strait vows to his own self
That when they rose, knighted from kneeling, some

Some flush’d, and others dazed, as one who wakes
Half-blinded at the coming of a light.”

The Student Council this year embarked upon an entirely different program from anything it has attempted here-to-fore. Rather than acting as a disciplinary body the Council has attempted a positively constructive plan of work. The standing committees have taken a real interest in their work. Wade Lewis and his Grounds Committed are largely responsible for the garden which has been started in the court. The Calendar Committee, headed by Sam Ashe, is to be commended for the neat appearance of the bulletin boards this year. Under the sponsorship of the Standards Committee, with James Renn as chairman, the Student Body helped to make its own Code of Standards. Muriel Blackwood and her Social Committee have been especially active in welcoming visitors to the School. The elections this year have been well managed by the Elections Committee. Arch Newbold is chairman. Rowland Danielson and his committee have enforced the Points system this year. The House Committee, headed by Adlai Oliver, has been active in preserving the beauty of the building. Clarence Gale succeeded in getting the first club charters under the regulations of which all societies and clubs must function. Charlie Cates and Arthur Brown have rendered appreciative service by maintaining the School Store, where students can conveniently secure necessary supplies.

During the spring the Council as a whole adopted as its project "The General Improvement of Conditions, Morally and Physically." A lively campaign was put into action by Arch Newbold.

For the second time in three years, Raleigh brought home the presidency of the North Carolina Student Council Congress for the ensuing year. The president this year is Katherine Metcalf.

Football was aided greatly this year by the construction of a gridiron on the grounds of Broughton High School. This is the first athletic field to be owned by the schools.

The coaching staff was strengthened this year by adding Ray Gregson from Wake Forest College as assistant coach. Mr. Gregson was all-state end at Wake Forest during his college days. He was named to succeed Coach Spurlock as head coach when the latter resigned his post here at the close of the season.

Raleigh's team was built around five letter men, who carried the brunt of the attack. The team was lacking in individual stars but worked more as a unit, showing more team work than previously.

Raleigh was defeated by Durham in the east to give the eastern title to this traditional foe.

Grady Ferrell, Raleigh captain, was given all-state honors as a result of his consistent and hard playing all season.

GRADY FERRELL. Grady was captain of this year's team and piloted his ship in a good manner. His usual position was at fullback but he could double in the quarter-back position easily enough. Grady was a powerful plunging back.

SEAMON HUDSON. Seamon played in good style the whole season. He was about the strongest spot in Raleigh's line where he played as guard. Seamon was an outstanding lineman.

CLAIBORNE KELLY. Claiborne was a rookie this year but played in veteran style. A good back.

EDWARD LONGMIRE. A center and a good one. Longmire was a holdover from last year and was a good pivot man.

WILLIAM BAREFOOT. Bill was a rookie who played in good style. He stood out as a strong lineman.

HOWARD ABRAMS. Howard was an outstanding lineman and he showed up well in all his games.

SAMMY PAUL. Sammy was a colorful back. A clever runner and passer—always alert.

AL DUNAWAY. Al was another rookie who played in fine style. He was a strong wingman.

RUSSELL NICHOLSON. Russell was a shining light in Raleigh's line. He was used a lot as kick-off man.

JACKIE GLASS. Jackie, an end, was one of the hardest players on the team. His end was never rounded.

FRANK JOLLY. Frank was a rookie who took his place in the first string backfield. Frank was a clever player and a good punter.

Basketball made its debut this year under the direction of Spurlock and Gregson as coaches but closed the season under the coaching of Gregson after he was named head coach to succeed the former upon his resignation.

The team was left with little veteran stock of the previous year and it was necessary to rebuild the whole team.

The team preceding this year's was one of the best in the school's history. Winning the Eastern Championship, Raleigh met Charlotte at Chapel Hill and there was defeated by the Queen City team.

Apparently not convinced they were beaten, Raleigh sent the team to the South-Atlantic Tournament where the boys advanced to the finals, a step higher than the Charlotte team. They fell victims to the team from Charleston, South Carolina, in the finals.

Two of Raleigh's players gained all South-Atlantic honors as a result of the splendid showing they made. Another was given honorable mention.

This year's team was again successful in winning the Eastern Championship but was defeated by Charlotte at Chapel Hill. Raleigh entered the Annual State College Invitational Tournament this year and was defeated by Oxford in their second game.

Russell

GRIMES HANNA. Grimes was the captain of this year's team. He guided the team to an Eastern Championship. Hanna was a consistent player and could always be depended on for some points.

RUSSELL SHERRILL. Russell was a leader on this year's team. He was a good shot and fast on the floor. He worked well in the team's passing system this year.

CHARLIE AYCOCK. Charlie was the star center and high scorer in many games this year. His aim was always good. He was unable to play in the tournament because of illness and this partly accounts for the team's loss.

THEODORE CHAPPELL. Chappell was a newcomer to the team but his playing in the first few games stamped him as a player of the first rank. He was a fast floorman and an accurate shot.

PAUL KAMETCHES. This was Paul's first year on the hardwood floor. He distinguished himself from the beginning by his hard, fast playing and became a regular. Paul was one of the outstanding players.

WILLIS THOMPSON. Willis was a consistent player and a hard worker. He did good work last year and deserves much credit.

The most successful sport sponsored by the Raleigh High School this year was boxing. While a comparatively new sport in the athletic make-up of the schools, boxing drew large crowds to each of the matches held here this year.

The Cauliflower game was introduced into the High Schools three years ago as a means of physical training for a few boys of Broughton High School.

The sport readily became a favorite, soon having enough followers to make possible a team. Mr. Johnson, athletic director, immediately volunteered to coach the boys. The first year of competition found Raleigh riding whirlwind fashion over all opposition. The second year of the sport gave Raleigh the State Championship in the first High School tournament held in North Carolina.

This year's Raleigh defending champions lost their state title in the annual tournament held at Chapel Hill. Wilson succeeded Raleigh as State Champions.

Previous to the tournament, Raleigh lost two matches. Both of these were away from home, one at Wilson and the other at Roanoke Rapids. These losses were later revenged.

Raleigh placed only one state champion this year in contrast to four the previous year.

In two post-season engagements with Charlotte and Leaksville, Raleigh won each bout in decisive manner.

FRANK JOLLY. Jolly has made a notable record during his past three years on the boxing team. He won the state championship his second year and was practically assured of repeating this year but failed to make the weight of 125 pounds. He has the unique distinction of having defeated three of this year's state champions.

JACK DUNAWAY. Jack is a member of that trio known far and wide as the "Fighting Dunaways." He is co-captain of this year's team, and has the most impressive record of any member of the team. Jack fights at 122 pounds and is a clever boxer.

AL DUNAWAY. Al is a member of the "Fighting Dunaways" and is co-captain, fighting in the 135 pound class. He has a good record in competition. Lately Al has had a tendency to fight to a draw but has been able to come through with a majority of wins.

BILLY HANNA. Hanna is a classy fighter and goes out to win with the strike of the gong. His victories are all impressive and leave no doubt in the referee's mind as to the winner. Billy keeps on his toes and is always alert.

SEAMON HUDSON. Seamon isn't a very colorful fighter, but he can nearly always be depended on for a victory. Hudson fights flat-footed and packs a mean punch.

HARRY BEDDOES. Harry is one of the most consistent fighters on the team. He nearly always comes through with a victory in the pinch. Harry fights in the 125 pound class. He has a long reach and is able to carry the fight easily.

Baseball

The 1931 baseball team presented by Raleigh was one of the strongest in recent years. The team fought its way to the Eastern Championship and then defeated Charlotte in the State Championship game.

The Championship game was a thriller from start to finish, being a pitching duel between Reeves and the Charlotte twirler. Reeves allowed only two hits while his mates were getting four.

The team won all of its other games and stamped itself as the best in recent history and was the first Raleigh team to vanquish a western team in competition on the athletic field in many years.

Nearly all of the team was lost through graduation and it has been necessary to build this year's team from the ground up, as there are only three letter men returning.

"Now," said the professor, "pass all your papers to the end of the row; have a carbon sheet under each one, and I can correct all the mistakes at once."—The Columbus.

BUILDERS DREAMS

VISIONS created by the imagination precede the achievement of any really great accomplishment. The ability to weave the threads of imagination into the finished fabric is equally important.

It has been the privilege of the EDWARDS & BROUGHTON COMPANY to interpret the ideas of the Staff and create in material form their vision.

From the art work and engravings to the finished book, this volume is the result of organized coöperation with the Staff.

Such able coöperation is one of the "visions" which precede the building of a successful business, and is a part of the working policy of the EDWARDS & BROUGHTON COMPANY.

To those Staffs desiring complete coöperation from art work and engravings to the finished book, we offer unexcelled service. Complete service means undivided responsibility as to the result—one organization to correspond and talk with—one trained director to merge the many ingredients into the finished product.

You, too, may be proud of your annual.

Correspondence is Invited

Dear Wade,

This is more fun than a barrel of monkeys, since I'm writing to such an attractive young man. Your personality has ^{been} overruled since you aren't only ^{one} girl's man. That freezes me.

Love,

Mary Yorks

Dear Wade,

This is just a line, not a clothes line,
to let you know that I'll never forget you.

Love

Anne
